A balance between international success and family values is the key to Cataldo's long-standing reputation as one of Australia's most successful and pre-eminent hair and beauty salons.

A family affair with brothers Emilio and Angelo at the helm, Cataldo's is located in the heart of Canberra's CBD and boasts a sleek and sophisticated award winning interior design, which has been featured in magazines Australia wide.

The staff at Cataldo's are a tight knit team of highly skilled and dedicated hairdressers who constantly push themselves to new and creative challenges in hairdressing, which is evident by their success once again in this year's L'Oréal Professionnel Colour Trophy.

They have a huge reputation to uphold, with Cataldo's being credited with a long list of prestigious local and international hairdressing awards, including the national title of this prestigious award in 2005.

Shona Cataldo, the creator of this winning look, is a third generation member of the renowned Cataldo family hairdressing dynasty and a rising star.

THE LOOK

In creating their award winning look, Shona and the team were inspired by their model's youth and natural beauty.

They decided to take a fresh, young approach by first cutting their model's hair into a cool tomboyish style which emphasised her youth and vitality.

They then added exquisite colours of copper and red to bring out her natural tones and make her skin appear to glow.

Shona and her team decided to start with a base of Luocolor permanent colour in dark, petrol green tones and then added a mixture of vibrant coppers and cherry reds.

The contradiction of cut and colour really complements the model and brings out a surprising softness in her overall look.
